

PROCLAMATION

Education Savings Week is an initiative created to increase public awareness on the importance of education savings, and to provide information on the various resources and government incentives available to help parents finance their children's post-secondary education.

Whereas: A post-secondary education is becoming increasingly more expensive and early financial planning becoming critical;

Whereas: Saving for a child's education is connected to improved child development, greater educational and career expectations, and future financial capability;

Whereas: The Canada Learning Bond is a free government grant available to low-income families to kick-start their child's education savings.

On behalf of City Council and the citizens of Calgary, I hereby proclaim November 20-26, 2016 as:

"EDUCATION SAVINGS WEEK"
